

Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Wednesday 24 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Light rain will clear by midday leaving brighter conditions.

Today:

A cloudy start as a band of light rain moves across the region during the morning. Drier conditions will follow with some sunny spells developing at times, though the odd scattered shower is still possible. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Tonight:

A largely dry evening for most with patchy cloud building through the night. A chance of a few outbreaks of light rain and drizzle during the early hours. Breezy. Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Thursday:

After a chilly start, it will be a largely dry day with sunny spells. A few blustery scattered are possible and winds will continue to strengthen through the day. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:

Blustery showers and strong winds on Friday with possible hail and thunder and feeling colder. Staying windy on Saturday but drier and brighter. Further outbreaks of rain on Sunday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.